JULY - AUGUST 2025

FROM THE EAST

Brethren, we're halfway through the year. I know those of us over 40 are tired of hearing this, but I'll say it anyway: "Where does the time go? Wasn't it just New Year's? Time flies by so fast."

As time relentlessly slips by, I'd like to say that this has been a very good year. The state of our lodge is good. We have a new member in Robert Bleza, we have a member advancing in Erick Ojeda-Garcia, and we have quite a few more looking to join our ranks. New members are ultimately what's going to make a successful lodge. We're planning on having a big third degree for Erick, an E Pluribus Unum (out of many; one) Degree. We're inviting Past Masters from multiple different lodges to participate in this degree.

Throughout the Harbor community, we're getting noticed, too. Through my participation in the Honorary Mayor Campaign for San Pedro, we've had quite an impact within the community. Speaking of the campaign, I came in second place. Another gentleman named Ken Creighton took the title, and it makes sense because Ken is the kind of guy who is super connected with the community of San Pedro - he is Santa Claus in the Holiday Parade and the Easter Bunny during Easter. However, I am proud to report that I raised $8,000 for the USS IOWA and another nonprofit called Labor Community Services - Los Angeles, all under the name of Los Angeles Harbor Masons. As a result of this participation, I've been getting more inquiries from local businesses and the Chamber of Commerce about renting our space, and there are even a few nonprofits that are wondering if we can help them out with fundraising. We've also been garnering interest from nearby Wilmington and Lomita.

Here's a few other updates. We have a new website in the works! And soon it will be finalized. This will include a website for hall rentals. And finally, we're bringing back the Chamber of Reflection and creating a study in the old secretary's office.

Fraternally,

Andrew Perry, P.M.
Worshipful Master

CIVILITY AND FREEMASONRY (EXTRACTED FROM FRATERNAL REVIEW, FEB 2024)

Brother George Washington, though born into landed gentry in Virginia, did not receive the benefit of more than eight years of formal education. He considered this a disadvantage, making him self-conscious in the presence of those whom he considered more learned. As he reached manhood, the military career and the moral and ethical lessons he enthusiastically imbibed as a young Freemason more than compensated for his lack of formal education. Young George felt that social and personal harmony were only possible if one learned how to carry oneself with dignity and civility. We know this from one of the few examples we have of his writings; a little booklet he wrote as a young man, titled The Rules of Civility.

The young Washington copied these “Rules of Civility” from another book, “Youth’s Behavior, Or, Decencie in Conversation Among Men”, by Francis Hawkins, published in 1668. The original material for Hawkins’ book came from a 1595 French Jesuit text primarily intended for young men of privilege. The chapter that caught young George’s attention was “The Rules of Civility and Decent Behaviour in Company and Conversation.” The manuscript of rules that he copied down was entitled simply “The Rules of Civility.” His original is now preserved at the Library of Congress.

The 110 rules copied down by young Washington included guidance on propriety, decorum, and civility. Below are two that deal with civility in handling conflicts.

Rule 86: “In Disputes, be not So Desirous to Overcome as not to give Liberty to each other to deliver his Opinion; and Submit to the Judgment of the Major Part, especially if they are Judges of the Dispute.”

Rule 87: “Let thy carriage be such as becomes a Man: Grave, Settled, and Attentive to that which is spoken. Contradict not, at every turn, what others Say.”

How better would our own business appear if Brethren of any age approached each other on the level and with due awareness and skillful application of these two rules of civility alone?
